

Report to KHF 3rd June 2019 from Kent Archaeological Society

The AGM took place in May – well attended with confirmation that the new Charitable Incorporated Organisation came into being on 1st January 2019 – one major aspect of this means that there is now a new bank account which must be used as the old one has now been closed. The AGM ended with two interesting presentations on Literature in Kent by Dr Kerry Brown and the Lees Court Estate Project by Dr Steve Willis.

The new website is continuing to be developed. All future events such as the annual Fieldwork Conference will appear on this. This conference is being organised jointly by KAS and Council for British Archaeology South East and will probably cover aspects of archaeological and historical relations between the UK and mainland Europe. Other conferences and events are being arranged by the other committees. Any society can contact the website and ask for their events to be advertised on the site. KAS is moving into the 21st century with new technology being used on various excavations and other sites. Affiliated societies are able to access the use of the equipment under supervision.
